

Caregiver Stress

TEN SIGNS OF CAREGIVER STRESS

Are you providing care for someone with ALS?

Taking care of someone with ALS is a demanding task. It requires time and energy. Looking after someone you love can be difficult. Even with youth and good health on your side, caregiving can be hard. To continue giving care, it is essential that you look after yourself. Knowing and recognizing the signs of stress in yourself or someone you care about is the first step in taking action. Finding ways to reduce the stress will help to lessen the long-term emotional and physical toll of caregiving. As a caregiver, you should take care of yourself as you are the most important person in the life of someone with ALS. There are things that can be done to help you maintain your health and well being. The following is a list of common signs of caregiver stress to review. If you are experiencing a number of the symptoms on a regular basis, call your doctor or contact the ALS Society of Alberta for help.

DENIAL...

about ALS and its effect on the person living with ALS: "I know Mom will get better. They must have made a mistake"

EMOTIONAL REACTIONS...

you cry at minor upsets; you are often irritable: "I cried when the grocery store was out of my favourite cereal. Then I yelled at the clerk"

ANGER...

at the person with ALS and others. "I have to do everything!"

ANXIETY...

about facing another day and what the future holds: "I'm worried about what will happen if I can no longer provide care"

EXHAUSTION...

you barely have the energy to complete your daily tasks: "I don't have the energy to do anything anymore"

SLEEPLESSNESS...

you wake up in the middle of the night or have nightmares and stressful dreams: "I rarely sleep through"

LACK OF CONCENTRATION...

you have trouble focusing. You find it difficult to complete complex tasks: "I used to do the daily crossword, now I am lucky if I can concentrate enough to solve one quarter of it"

WITHDRAWING SOCIALLY...

you no longer want to stay in touch with friends or participate in activities you once enjoyed: "I don't want the neighbours to see us like this."

HEALTH PROBLEMS...

you may lose or gain weight, get sick more often (colds, flu), develop chronic health problems (backaches, headaches, high blood pressure): "Since the spring, I have had either a cold or the flu. I just can't seem to shake them"
